

The breathless, horrified coverage of the Black Maternal Health crisis that faces birthing people in the United States is curious in its composition.